STRUCTURAL DESIGN

Here at John A. Martin & Associates of Nevada, we work with our clients to select a building system that will provide the most effective long term building performance and the structural durability that is expected by the owner. We pride ourselves on designing this system to be consistent with the architectural concept of the project, reflecting the feeling and mood, which is to be created. During the design process, we work closely with our clients to achieve the look desired by the architect while also making suggestions that will minimize the material and construction costs to the owner.
