VALUE ENGINEERING

Our experience with a wide range of structures, materials, building codes, and construction methods allows John A. Martin & Associates of Nevada to provide owners and architects with cost effective modifications to help bring projects within budget. We aim to maintain the same look and feel desired for the project, while suggesting alternative layouts or framing methods that will substantially decrease the building costs. For large projects, we can provide complimentary preliminary evaluation of a structure to determine if it benefits the owner to consider value engineering.
